

McGill University
Division of Child Psychiatry
Quebec Child Mental Health Research Day

The Quebec Child Mental Health Research Day is a popular event bringing together Quebec child psychiatrists and mental health researchers to inform participants of what is happening in this area. Please come and join us at this informative half-day conference.

, Until October 1st, Dr. Szatmari was the Chief of the Child and Youth Mental Health Collaborative between CAMH, the Hospital for Sick Children and the University of Toronto. He has worked in the field of child and youth psychiatry for over forty years in the areas of ADHD, depression and anxiety and impairment due to mental disorders. He is well known for his work in autism spectrum disorders and has contributed to that field in the areas of diagnosis and classification, in genetics and in outcome studies. Currently, he is the Director of the Cundill Centre for Child and Youth Depression at the Centre for Addiction

